Editorial

It came as a shock to one of our information assistants at the National Park Centre in Hawes just a couple of weeks back; two disgusted visitors came in to say that the area was so unfriendly, and they would tell all their friends so. That is so different from what people usually seem to say about Wensleydale. You can't help wondering where they had been and whom they had met!

It does, however, raise the question about our general approach to others and the time we allow for what you might call 'civility' or the niceties of life. It could be that some of us are extremely busy and wanting to 'waste' no time; we could be pre-occupied and 'out of sorts' or had a bad night or bad news; or is it just typical British reserve or insularity? However, there is a lot to be said for the exchange of pleasantries. In many other parts of the world it is considered the height of rudeness to walk straight into, say, a shop and ask for 'whatever' without first greeting the assistant, inquiring how they are 'going', to which there will be similar kindly responses.

Some people are brilliant at this. Putting others at ease, going to the aid of obviously lost or bemused tourists without being asked or being prepared to spend a bit of time to listen to others' concerns (which, let's face it can be a bit tedious sometimes!) or even on the phone having a little time for other than the immediate business in hand. But these many, small acts of 'civility', politeness and friendliness are what make for strong, contented communities with a sense of well-being.

There is clearly a great benefit from living in, or visiting, a beautiful internationally regarded area like ours, where the scenery, landscape and wildlife bring relaxation and refreshment, but we know ourselves that this can't make up for a rude or aggressive encounter.

It might be a case of the 1960s 'Stop the World I want to get off'. Are we all going too fast for our own good? Modern communication is just amazing and in certain circumstances makes life unbelievably easier, especially in emergencies, but there is surely a case sometimes to slow down, to take stock, to ask why we are in such a rush. You might not know (we didn't- and see the article 'November Dates' on page 6) that the 21st of November is the 39th World Hello Day! It is observed in 180 countries. Everyone is asked to find time to say 'hello' to ten people. This demonstrates the importance of personal communication in preserving peace.

Maybe it's time to be brave, to step out of our shells and to demonstrate more acts of simple kindness.

Free Seasonal Greetings

The Newsletter will accept greetings, free of charge, for Christmas and the New Year from readers or businesses who advertise with us.

This popular service is especially useful for those who cannot now deal with sending cards or wish to donate the money saved to their chosen charity.

Please send details in by the next deadline or preferably before - see above.

Up on the Hillside

Strolling up High Lane (the byway over to Cray from Raydale) I noticed this quite considerable work going on beside the un-surfaced road: large underground chamber, several big tanks presumably to be sunk in; but no indication of what, except that a few large blue pipes suggested it was water. It all seemed a bit big to supply water to Stalling Busk,. So intrigued– or nose– I rang Yorkshire Water. They were all very polite (I say ‘all’ because they didn’t know which department to put me through to) but couldn’t help, even with the exact grid reference, and claimed “It isn’t us!”.

The District Council had no idea, not their responsibility; the County made an effort and returned calls twice by which time the National Park had told me that Yorkshire Water had put in the planning application. They kindly gave me a number for Knaresborough which led me then to the contractor. It surprised them to be called but what a reward! A true enthusiast for water works, Derek, (and a walker within the Dales area) gave me a long blow by blow account of all the work!

It is the final stage of a big scheme to improve both the quality, quantity and security of water for Stalling Busk, Counter-sett and Marsett by bringing it up from Bainbridge, having this underground storage, replacing three small treatment plants and pumps with one big one and eliminating the need to ‘tanker-in’ water up the narrow lanes in summer, . Derek seemed mighty pleased with the scheme and that anyone would even want to know. ‘In the middle of Bradford everyone would know; out in the sticks they don’t expect anyone to bother!’ A notice on the fence round the work would have saved a lot of phoning round for this inquisitive local stroller!

New Faces at Sycamore Hall

Chris Richards and Alice Thwaite are starting a new catering venture at Sycamore at the end of October. They were looking forward, when I chatted to them, to cooking for the residents and were going to begin by asking them what they like to eat! Both of them have a background in catering and have worked at Simonstone Hall. They would like to create a relaxed family atmosphere at the Hall, run a 'bistro' style diner, do breakfasts, packed lunches for walkers and children's cooking workshops.

It was the driver of the Little Red Bus who suggested the idea to Chris of working at Sycamore Hall (Well done, Alan). They will also be able to take party bookings, including Christmas parties, birthdays and also hope to take over the running of the shop. Alice will be baking bread and cakes.

They were full of enthusiasm and ideas, so keep an eye on the Newsletter for further news, and we wish them well.

The Story of Sports in the Dales Exhibition 2012

The 1900 Olympic Games were held in Paris and the French organisers came up with the idea that in addition to seeing competitive sport, visitors to the games should also be offered a chance to find out something of the culture and history of the host country. As the host for the London Olympics this country is heavily involved in what is called the Cultural Olympiad. All over the country organisations are participating in a theme event titled “ local stories ” which aims to illustrate the culture and lifestyle of different parts of the country by showing the best of the archive collections held in the UKs museums, libraries and universities.

The National Park is taking part and has chosen a subject relevant to the Olympic Games, The Story of Sport in the Dales, both past and present. An exhibition and activities demonstrating how Dales people have been involved in various sports over the last few hundred years are being put together by the Museum staff. If you have any old film, photographs, recordings, papers, programmes and old sports gear that we could borrow and copy we would love to hear from you. For the time being we are particularly short of old photos of fell racing, village tennis and badminton clubs, cycling, triathlon and pigeon racing. My contact telephone number is 650774 or leave a message for me at the Museum on 666210.

Heavens Above

November's the best time of the year to look for the biggest and most remote object visible to the naked human eye. It's the famous Andromeda Galaxy, which lies over 2 million light years away - a mind-boggling 15 million, million, million miles - in the constellation of the same name. M31, to give it its catalogue number, is spiral-shaped like our own Milky Way galaxy. With a diameter of 150,000 light years it's a good deal larger than the Milky Way, however, and contains somewhere in the region of 200 billion stars. If you'd like to have a go at spotting M31 yourself, you'll need to be well away from artificial lighting on a really clear, moonless night. Start off by locating the 4 stars forming the Great Square of Pegasus, high up in the south by 9 o'clock in the middle of the month. Leading off from the Square's top left-hand star (Alpheratz) towards the distinct 'W' shape of Cassiopeia are a couple of chains of fairly bright stars. Just above the mid-point of the upper chain you should glimpse M31 as a faint, hazy smudge of light; binoculars show its oval shape much more clearly. It's a really beautiful sight in long exposure photographs which reveal the full extent of its spiral arms spanning almost 3 degrees of sky - six times the width of the full Moon.

It's a sobering thought to realise that the light reaching our eyes from these faint patches of light started on its journey over 2 million years ago. Have clear skies!

Hawes Community Bonfire and Fireworks Display

The annual celebration of Guy Fawkes night will take place at Hawes Community Field on Saturday November 5th. There is no charge for admission, but donations are very welcome as this is a very expensive event to run (£1000 for the fireworks alone). There will be plenty of collectors out with buckets on the night!

In a new departure, the Fireworks Committee is holding a competition for the best Guy. The competition is open to schools or children's or youth groups or unofficial family or friends groupings, and there will be cash prizes for first, second and third places. Bring your Guys to Dalesplay, in the grounds of Hawes Community Primary School, at 6.30pm on Friday, November 4th, for the judging. Afterwards everyone will go collecting "Pennies for the Guys" around Gayle and Hawes, before returning to Dalesplay for light refreshments.

Anyone with suitable material for the bonfire (only wood - not old furniture, metal, foam etc) is asked to bring it to the Community Field on the Saturday afternoon - or contact Fireworks Committee Chairman Mike Fothergill, 667936 or Secretary Ian King, 666096 if you need transport. Similarly, if anyone would like to volunteer to help on the night, please contact either of the above.

On 5th November the bonfire will be lit at 6.30pm. Shortly afterwards the fireworks will be set off. Hot food and drinks will be available. Please come along and make this lovely traditional, evening a rousing success.

Please note that members of the public are not allowed to bring sparklers or other fireworks on to the field. This is for safety and is also a condition of the Insurance.

Best Foot Forward

Ever heard of the Limestone Link? I stumbled across it (on a map) and decided to give it a try. It's not quite nearby and needs a drop-off.

It is easy to ignore a lovely area of limestone woodland in old Westmorland at the Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty near Arnside, that still quiet place (but with tea-shops and pubs!) situated on the wide Kent Estuary with its very long railway viaduct.

The signposted Limestone Link begins here about half a mile SE from the station crossing the line by a level crossing and then goes essentially eastwards over varying scenery all the way to Kirkby Lonsdale. It never rises very high, but goes up and down! The views all round are excellent.

After about a mile the Way reaches Hazelslack and the Fairy Steps, a narrow squeeze through the crags on to a limestone pavement in the woodland; and BEWARE! This pavement isn't horizontal and is very slippery in damp weather.

The route drops down to cross the old A6 near Beetham (big garden centre and tea-room), the Lancaster Canal, the railway and the M6 near to Holme. This old area, a long-standing ancient north-south route contains typical Pele Towers and ancient halls.

At Holme Park, on the A6070 (another old highway through Burton in Kendal), the Way starts to climb up on to Holme Park Fell, skirting a huge disused, limestone quarry to the south (but almost invisible). This is a lovely open fairly elevated area all the way to the upland hamlet of Hutton Roof. (There seem to be several 'Hutton Roofs' about the place!)

Continuing eastwards the route is easy to follow with distant views ahead of the Howgills and Three Peaks areas as it drops down to High Biggins and then Kirkby Lonsdale. Maybe spring is the best time for this walk because of the limestone grassland flowers, but at any time it makes a different walk of about 12 miles with 1500 feet of climbing and a highest point of 755 feet. You could manage with the Landranger Map no. 97 'Kendal to Morecambe'.

A Recipe for Low Spirits

Take 1oz of the seeds of resolution, properly mixed with the oil of good conscience; infuse into it a large spoonful of the salts of patience. Distil very carefully a composing plant called "others woes" which you will find in the garden of life growing under the broad leaves of disguise. Add a small quantity and it will greatly assist the salts of patience in their operations. Gather a handful of the blossoms of hope, then sweeten them properly with the balm of prudence; and if you can get any of the seeds of true friendship – as there is a weed very much like it called self interest, which will spoil the whole composition – make the ingredients into pills. Take one night and morning and in a short time a cure will be effected.

Little White Bus - Latest News

The LWB continues to go from strength to strength and recently it clocked up its 1500th passenger since it started in May.

Adding to the public spirited contributions of our 2 key volunteer drivers, Allen Dinsdale and Richard Noble, plus the odd stint from me, will soon be volunteers Angela Leathley, Ian King and Ian Woolley who have each passed their MIDAS mini-bus driving test. The LWB also relies on our part time drivers and the Community Office/Library in co-ordinating its services.

New LWB services include on Sundays running a scheduled service from Gayle / Hawes / Hardraw to meet trains at Garsdale, arriving at the Station at 10.25 am and 5.40 pm. Between those times it will operate in Demand Responsive mode, linking in also with the new Sunday Dales Bus service between Northallerton – Aysgarth - Hawes. This will enable passengers wanting to catch the Dales Bus from (for example) Askrigg or West Burton to book the LWB to get them to an interchange point with this service. (See p 10)

The LWB is also being funded by NYCC to offer a part replacement service for the Wensleydale Post bus, which ceased in October. The LWB will operate a pre-booked demand responsive service from Upper Wensleydale to carry passengers on essential journeys (eg for morning appointments at The Friarage Hospital) to feed into the 7.30 am Dales and District service leaving Leyburn for Northallerton. It is also available for early morning inter village journeys that the Post Bus used to operate to bring passengers up the Dale towards or to Hawes. For details of these new services please contact the Community Office on Monday to Friday on 667400, or e-mail uwco@btconnect.com

Out of hours please contact the LWB driver on 0781 698 6448 or e-mail: littlewhitebus@blackberry.orange.co.uk

Mobile library. Having sadly also lost our Mobile Library Service we are considering piloting a fortnightly journey around the villages of Upper Wensleydale, bringing passengers to the Hawes Library for a browse, and perhaps a little shopping in the town, and then returning them. The service would operate on Tuesday market day, and it would allow 1.5 hours in Hawes around lunchtime. A flat fare of £1 single, £2 return would be charged. If you are interested in this service, could you please contact the Community Office, so that we can gauge numbers, and decide whether it can go ahead. Thank you all for your support .

Askrigg Poppies

Most people in Askrigg (and further afield) probably don't realise that for many years Peter Tipton has been the Poppy Appeal organiser. Sadly he has resigned from this role because of an impending move to warmer climes near Oxford.

Peter has organised all the collectors, collected and distributed all the poppies and tins and done all the financial bits that go with it. Did you know that he also hand-writes a letter of thanks to all the collectors and tells them how much each has collected? In the last few years he has also organised a little 'get-together' for all the collectors with a 'bring and share' theme which has been greatly enjoyed. I am sure many people would like to thank him for all the hard work and dedication, and to say that he and Jenny will be greatly missed.

The other thing that we would like to mention is that a local Hawes business owner has suggested that the shopkeepers' Christmas party is revived. Apparently it used to be that all the local shopkeepers would close up one Wednesday afternoon before Christmas and meet up in various pubs around town where some would make a day of it and bring staff for meals and others would just turn out for a drink or two and see where the day went from there.

Do you know some more about the tradition? Anyway, at least 4 shop owners that we've suggested it to up to now think it's a brilliant idea, (community spirit and all that!) We've set a date of Wednesday 14th December and starting at the newly refurbished White Hart at 1.00pm until whenever, and all business people, shop-keepers and workers in Hawes are welcome.

Leyburn Bowling Club

The Leyburn bowling green closed for the 2011 season on 25th September. The 2011 season was a good one for Leyburn although, as always, it could have been even better. We play in the JSW League and after our usual slow start we finished mid-table, 6th place out of 11 teams, having recorded 11 victories against 9 defeats. At the end of the season we had in fact achieved only 2 wins fewer than the second placed team and we were left to console ourselves with what might have been if only we had found our form a little earlier in the season !

Leyburn held their annual Finals weekend on 10th and 11th September. Despite the often chilly and windy weather it was an enjoyable weekend for the club, especially so, of course, for those who were successful in the various competitions.

The club held its annual Presentation Night at The Friar's Head, Akebar, on 28th September with a dinner enjoyed by 24 members and friends.

If anyone is interested in joining our club for the 2012 season, or would like to learn more about Leyburn Bowling Club, please contact Hazel (623480) or Mervyn (625734) at any time.

Askrigg Coffee Success

Nearly £1,500 was raised at the church coffee morning on Saturday 17th September, thanks to loads of helpers, lots of contributions, great support from the whole community and a massive amount of hard work from Heather Hodgson and friends. It was a fantastic effort, considering that just three weeks earlier people had also donated generously to the annual St Oswald's gift day to the tune of around £2,500. St Oswald's like many other country churches is facing big financial challenges mainly due to the downturn in the economy, but also because it's an ancient building needing lots of ongoing maintenance. The Sunday morning congregation is dwindling, but the once-a-month cafe-style service is proving increasingly popular – as Ann Chapman says, “a sign of the times.” But what's really inspiring is to see, increasingly, the enthusiasm and commitment of younger members of the community – see picture below. Lots of small children, too, attending the children's services, enjoying the outings and other social events, and so getting a sense of the church not as a building where they have to sit still and be quiet once a week while the adults do their thing, but as a place of fun, laughter and companionship. Not a bad model for the future.

Family

I recently returned to Hawes to what I believed to be a dinner for my 75th birthday with one of my sons and wife at Simonstone Hall but on arrival all of our family and relations and a friend turned up. For the first time in my life I was choked and speechless. This is what families are all about .

My eldest grandson gave me a book as a present: A Grandparents Book Our Life Story. This is a record of life for your Family. Some of the questions are easy to answer but others are very difficult to remember like what were the first clothes you bought with your own money? Having spent many hours on my family tree over the last 4 years how I wish I had had these questions answered by my parents and grandparents. We all take for granted our parents but when they are gone what do we know about their lives?

Had I thought to ask while my parents were alive I would have more answers. But back to the present, we all have said at some time in our lives you can pick your friends but not your relations. In my case I could not have a better set of relations or their in-laws soon to be increased with the wedding next year of Hannah and Martin so another branch on our family tree; more internet searching.

This is the cover of Judith Bromley's delightful new book just out; an account of Dales landscape in all its variety made up of her and her husband Nik's illustrations together with submitted pieces of writing from locals of our area. Children, Churches, farmers and landowners all contribute, bringing their individual perspectives on the subject of Moorland..

Here are Judith's own words: " It is not geared towards landowners and the shooting fraternity any more than the more spiritually-focused, or the local community. But I hope this diversity of contributors will enable and facilitate a process where we can all learn more about each other's point of view."

Upper Dales Health Watch

The Consultative Group for the Central Dales GP Practice

Extracts from the meeting held on 10th October 2011

Andrew Lansley, Secretary of State had indicated he was willing to visit the Upper Dales. The Practice Manager made a commitment to forward details of the Practice. Brian McGregor was thanked for lowering the wall at the Aysgarth Surgery. The extension of double yellow lines near the Hawes surgery entrance is 'in hand'.

The Yorkshire Ambulance Service

Concern had been expressed at the distance some ambulances have had to travel. In order to provide the best possible cover in such an extensive rural area, ambulances were moved to stand-by points when other ambulances moved from their base area. Resources were limited and had to be managed as effectively as possible.

The destination of stroke patients living nearer Darlington Memorial Hospital than James Cook University Hospital (JCUH) depended on whether the Darlington Stroke Unit was operating or whether the service was at Durham University Hospital. (The two hospitals alternate the provision.) Dr West thought patients should go to a specialist Stroke Unit operating 24/7 which currently meant James Cook University Hospital. JCUH will become a major Trauma centre. The 45 minutes response target cannot currently be met in some parts of Richmondshire, but in a real emergency YAS could ask for help from both the Police and the Military for a helicopter; both services owning night flying helicopters. There are national discussions taking place to look at the possibility of night flying Air Ambulances. It was agreed that the Air Ambulance Services were one of the best supported charities in the Upper Dales, and the community was likely to respond positively to any request for extra help to enable night flying.

It was pointed out that more services will move from the Friarage to JCUH, and that the PCT had provided an extra ambulance in response to the decision to take both stroke and trauma patients to JCUH.

Muker Parish Council had reported that the lack of a mobile phone signal was preventing a First Responder team. This was already being followed up for Burton cum Walden. Dent had one volunteer able to get a signal and then land lines were used for the rest of the team.

Update from Central Dales GP Practice

- The UDHW supported the Partners' decision not to opt into the Department of Health proposed Patient Participation Scheme. The UDHW was using the democratic local election system and it was disappointing that the Dept. of Health had not looked at models that were already working. It has been reported that 2017 would see the tipping point when the majority of medical students graduating would be women. This could lead to many more doctors wanting to be flexible locums instead of Practice based GPs.

The UDHW undertook to find out more about the proposed Green Bag scheme being run by the South Tees Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust. "Green carrier bags will be made available to all patients coming for a planned operation before they are admitted."... "designed to encourage patients to bring in medicines they take on a regular basis in their original containers in a specially branded green reusable bag which remains with them for their entire hospital stay."

North Yorkshire Joint Strategic Needs Assessment looks at the current and future Health and Wellbeing needs of the people of North Yorkshire. The UDHW considered the three big issues that most significantly impacted on health and wellbeing in the Upper Dales were: Access to a GP surgery; Consideration of Rurality in all strategic policies; 'Not Spots' for mobile phones and Broad band

The Independent Review of Health Services in North Yorkshire and York makes grim reading, but reflects the current dire national economic situation. It was agreed communities would have to look at imaginative solutions rather than simply protest, as the financial situation meant cuts and changes were inevitable. It was significant that rurality is not taken into account in the funding formula. Richmondshire District Council's Upper Dales Area Partnership was developing a website to share local information. The synopsis of the UDHW minutes would be posted on this website and on both surgery notice boards.

Alan Harpley's Spitfire

Throughout the second world war many cities and towns raised money for their "Spitfire Fund". The great aunt of a man called Chris Robbins, organised the raising of £5250, the cost of a complete Spitfire, in the city of Wells in Somerset.

The original 'City of Wells' Spitfire was manufactured at Castle Bromwich in 1942 and taken in RAF charge on May 22nd transferring to 501 squadron on June 9th. It saw action with a number of squadrons including Canadian and Czech but the history is obscure other than damage recorded with 501 and 129 squadrons based at Tangmere. The replica 2/3 scale, now owned by Alan, was largely built by Chris Robbins. It was designed by John Isaacs who was a supermarine draughtsman. He built and flew his design successfully.

Alan has been busily, not to say frantically, getting this plane up to display standard for a Battle of Britain commemoration day at Akebar Golf Club and this he achieved. (This also involved acquiring and restoring a long trailer for transportation.) The day, of which the Spitfire was a part, raised nearly £7000 for 'Help for Heroes'.

Alan's next task is to get the plane flying. He is using an inverted straight 4 engine very similar to the Gipsy engine which powered the Tiger Moth. When finished it should be capable of 145mph in level flight and be licensed for 'mild' aerobatics. Keep watching the skies!

Wensleydale Words

*Matt Bromley, Deputy Headteacher of
The Wensleydale School Leyburn, on what's been happening this month*

This summer 88% of our Year 11 students achieved five or more GCSEs at grades A* to C; 80% of students got five or more A*-Cs including in English and Maths. This latter statistic is now the government's main measure of performance and, to put our results into perspective, the national average was 49.6%.

These results are the best The Wensleydale School has ever achieved and make us one of the top five most improved schools in the country. Moreover, our GCSE results are the best of any comprehensive school in North Yorkshire.

At A Level, our average point score per entry went up again, meaning results in each subject were broadly better than last year, and our pass rate remained exceptionally high at 98%. We are rightfully very proud of our students and staff for this excellent feat and this year there's a real buzz around school: we've started this term with a tangible sense of pride and purpose.

The Headteacher, Mr Benaiges, has been visiting local primary schools recently and word seems to be spreading that The Wensleydale School is now a highly successful school, unrecognisable from a few years ago. Aristotle famously said, 'one swallow does not a summer make' and it was natural for people to be cautious after one good set of results but we now have evidence of a positive 3-year trend and this year we expect to be even better with 82% of students achieving 5 GCSEs at A*-C including English and Maths.

A school is not an exams factory, however, and although these results are important because they allow our students to achieve their potential and provide a gateway for future success (all our Year 11 students have gone on to employment, education or training; nearly all our Year 13 students who wanted to go to university have been able to do so) we are also very proud of the way in which our students behave and how they develop emotionally and socially. Students are always smartly dressed, impeccably behaved and well-mannered. I have never worked in a school where the students are so mature and take such pride in their school. In fact, a student who recently joined us from another school told me this week that he likes it at Wensleydale because "it's cool to behave here".

After years of planning and trying to secure funds, work on the school's new all-weather pitch, or MUGA, started in October. It is expected that the new facility - which will be a great addition to the community not just the school - will be ready for use by Christmas.

Performers from Opera North joined us in school last month to work with music students - it was an important event for North Yorkshire and the county's lead music advisor was also in school - and students travelled to Leeds that evening to watch a performance of Tchaikovsky's 'Queen of Spades'.

Finally, our annual open evening took place on October 12th for prospective parents and students from Year 6 - although anyone was welcome to come and have a look around - and it was an impressive turn-out. It was a really positive evening celebrating the school's recent achievements and showcasing our work.

This month the children have been celebrating the Hindu festival 'Diwali'. We have made some Rangoli Patterns outside the entrance to welcome people in the setting and bring good luck. We have made some Diya's, (small candles), to help celebrate this festival of light. The children learnt how Hindus prepare for Diwali and why they celebrate it. See photos of these activities at www.dalesplay.posterous.com on our blog.

Dalesplay have planned lots of fun Halloween workshops to take place over half term to help keep children entertained. We have also teamed up with Hawes Bonfire committee to help with their best Guy Fawkes competition. Children can make a Guy Fawkes and bring it to Dalesplay on Friday 4th November at 6.30pm. The Guys will be judged and prizes awarded. Everyone will then take the Guys around Hawes/Gayle on a walk to collect 'penny for the Guy' to help raise money for the event. On return to Dalesplay the children will be given a drink and snack. This is free for all to join in with whatever age!

Dalesplay will be holding their annual Christmas Fayre again in the Market Hall, Hawes on 27th November, 10.00am-4.00pm, everyone is welcome. If you need childcare call in and we will show you around the setting and the packages we have on offer. We aim to keep our prices low and provide high quality care. We have strong links with families and can help guide you in claiming extra assistance in childcare costs. Joanne Middleton

Where Have All the Emails Gone?

Do you ever get the feeling sometimes that using email can be a little like banging your head against a brick wall? It is becoming increasingly common for emails to be sent but apparently never reach their destination. In fact they usually do reach their destination it is just that the email services try to be clever and you never see them! A classic example of this is with BT/Yahoo email. You get your new email address and log on the email page on the internet and get confronted with dozens of annoying adverts and somewhere in the middle there is a small patch where your emails are displayed. At this point a lot of people decide to use an alternative method.

Classically Windows XP (and earlier) users adopted Outlook Express as the email client of choice. In windows Vista and 7 you no longer have Outlook Express but can use Windows Mail in Vista (or Windows Live Mail which you have to download for XP, Vista or 7). If you had Microsoft Office installed and a copy of Microsoft Outlook that may be the email program you chose to use. Mac users generally use the simply named 'Mail' program. You set up your user account details with all these odd details (POP and SMTP servers) and bingo you start to get emails without all the flashing adverts. Well not exactly – nowadays a number of providers make you jump through some hoops first. Gmail for example only works after you update the options page in your account and turn on POP mail. Once you have all your mail arriving you start to notice that some emails never appear. This is where the email providers are trying to be helpful and are anything but. Almost all providers now provide a junk mail (or spam) filter as standard and any suspect mail is squirreled away into a Junk or Spam folder. The trouble is that often mail programs such as those mentioned above only retrieve email from your inbox and anything in in the Spam folder (or any other folder for that matter) is not collected – hence assumed missing. The problem is that the filters used vary from email provider to provider. Generally Gmail seems to have the best hit rate at junking spam and allowing your real mail but it isn't 100% perfect. The worst in my experience is BT/Yahoo email – the spam filter is not very efficient letting a lot of rubbish through but marking genuine mail as spam – consequently you get a lot of rubbish but significantly you don't get all of your proper emails!

Never fear – this can be fixed but the method varies from provider to provider. For BT/Yahoo mail you need to visit the flashing adverts page one more time and log in to your account (go to www.btinternet.com or mail.yahoo.com or mail.yahoo.co.uk depending on your address) and click on the options at the top right. You need to change a setting in the POP and Forwarding section which allows all spam to be collected too. Note you have the option to prefix everything they think is spam with [Bulk] so that you get a warning when you look at new email as it arrives.

Gmail is slightly more complicated – first you have to turn on POP to be able to use it (log in via mail.gmail.com and click on options – the little cog at the top right, then choose Forwarding and POP/IMAP, choose the enable POP of your choice and click save). Finally you need to set up a filter so that all junk is picked up in your email program. To do this, go back to the mail options page and click on Filters. Click create a new filter, type @ in the 'From' box and click 'Next Step', on the next page select 'Never Send it to Spam' and then click 'Create Filter'. This effectively turns off the spam filter and sends all mail to the inbox. Now you will receive all of your mail in your email program of choice but you will have to deal with spam manually. For other providers you will need to check the settings yourself or ask your provider for help. That's it for another month, any questions or ideas for article please drop me a line via my website www.dalescomputerservices.com.

November on the Wensleydale Railway

Bonfire Night (November 5) is on a Saturday this year so no doubt all the community events will be held on the same evening! However if you have family or friends down the dale, how about catching The Bonfire Express from Redmire to join them at Bedale's fireworks display? Vegetation clearance is still in progress so check train times by phoning the railway office.

Scheduled Trains run between Redmire and Leeming Bar on four days a week throughout November: Tuesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. November 12/13 will be Poppy Day week-end on the railway. (The last date for the vintage bus service from Ripon, Leyburn and Redmire to Hawes and Garsdale is Sunday October 30).

Friday November 25th there will be two special events. Most people travel on the train for these but, if you live this side of Redmire, you would be very welcome to ring me to check how you can join in as booking is needed for both events.

(a) Shopping excursion to Carlisle with an optional tour in aid of charity beneath Carlisle station – it's huge!

(b) 5 mile guided walk from Leyburn to Redmire, followed by a Festive Lunch at the Bolton Arms. There's a great menu!

Santa Specials (and they are special!) Dates are Dec 3/4, 10/11, 17-24. This is a reminder to book early to get your first choice of date and time.

Settle-Carlisle Walking Conference Wednesday November 16, Saltaire

The programme for this event is on website www.foscl.org.uk – or call in at the Community Office for a copy. There will be speakers on walking for health (a cancer nurse); walking in the dales (no surprise there!) and the new long-distance route between Settle and Hadrian's Wall – pioneered by a 19 year old Wainwright just before the second world war. He called it Pennine Journey and our speaker is the project manager who is organising the way-marking etc. Of special interest to accommodation providers will be the significance of walkers to the local economy, with mention of the Settle-Carlisle Walking Festival, planned for May 1-7, 2012. The event is organised by SCENe, the Settle-Carlisle Enterprise Network and costs £15 including lunch; start and finish times suit travel by train from Garsdale station.

Prunings

A personal take on Plants, Propagating and other related rural ramblings.

“Season of mists and mellow fruitfulness,
Close bosomed friend of the maturing
sun...”

It is said that Keats wrote his “Ode to Autumn” in September 1819, and we certainly had the fruitfulness this September. Friends and neighbours have had a bumper apple crop, and I am contemplating green tomato chutney. By the time this is in print we shall have had plenty of frost, and possibly snow.

The wind has shaken off plenty of leaves to Hoover up and compost. There are so many jobs to do that I hardly know where to start. I have taken lots more cuttings, and the pelargoniums are now cut back and safely in the greenhouse. I have cut back the aeoniums which had grown into trees over the summer. As they take up so much room I think it might be better to propagate new ones and dispose of the woodiest specimens. We have decided to get rid of some of the larger shrubs which block the view from the patio and replace them with roses. Much as I like the forsythia, it has grown huge and has certainly seen better days. I shall take plenty of hardwood cuttings when we dig it out, and I have put the new rose bushes into long pots so that they can be mulched in as soon as the space is cleared.

The olive tree I bought in a misguided moment has grown well, and I have taken some cuttings from it, (fingers crossed) but I think it has little chance of survival outside if we have a long winter.

The least successful purchase this year has been the acidanthera or gladiolus calianthus to give them their proper name. From all the bulbs I potted up, and there were several dozen, only two flower stems have appeared. Outside I knew they might struggle to flower in our northern climate, but to be on the safe side I kept some in the polytunnel. The result has been exactly the same, and I bought them from several sources to compare performance. Up to today, the 18th October, it has been universally poor.

As usual, hope springs eternal and there will be something which surprises me with its resilience, but until I come across it I shall have to soldier on with the chopping and pruning and clearing up.

Good luck! And whatever you grow, take time to enjoy it.

Beauty and the Beast

It's just seven weeks until we take to the Market House stage again, for this year's production "Beauty and the Beast". We invite you to join us for a fun family night out in Pantoland with Belle, Prince Rupert and all the staff at Dusty Cob's Bakery. Buy your tickets now if you would like to beat the rush. They are available from the Sweet Shop in Hawes, Sykes Store in Askrigg or at www.wensleydale.org.

You will not have escaped rising prices on every-day items over the past few months and this too has been affecting production costs year on year. Last year the wintry weather also affected our ticket sales and we are unable to subsidise the cost of putting on the production this year. The Committee has therefore taken the difficult decision to increase the price of tickets to £12.00 for adults and £10.00 for children. If anyone would like to further support HAOS with a donation please send it to Jennifer Fawcett, Pry House, Appersett.

Everyone taking part gives their time voluntarily and we greatly appreciate all the support whether on stage, behind the scenes or as a valued member of the audience.

We look forward to welcoming you to "Beauty and the Beast".

The National School and a new charity for Hawes

The National School buildings, situated close by St Margaret's Church Hawes, were given in Trust in 1846 for use as a school "for poor persons" of Hawes. The property ceased to be used as a school in 1879, and although the church carried on using it for a Sunday School and meeting room, over the years the schoolroom and a head master's house have fallen into disuse and disrepair.

The Trustees have applied to the Charity Commission for permission to sell the building, and have secured planning permission for future development as housing, including housing to meet the needs of local people. Although some of St Margaret's Parochial Church Council had originally hoped that cash from any sale would be available to help pay for repairs to St Margaret's church, it has become clear that this would breach the terms of the original trust deed, and so is not legally possible.

Instead, the Trustees have now applied for permission from the Charity Commission to create a new educational trust, the St Margaret's Educational Trust. This new charity will be able to support educational projects and community development in Upper Wensleydale, especially Hawes. It will also be allowed to fund grants and bursaries for local children, young people and adults to undertake study and courses.

A copy of the proposed new Charity's objects and constitution is now available for public consultation, at the Vicarage. This consultation ends in early November, after which the Trustees will apply for it to be formally registered with the Charity Commission, and then shall place the property on the market

The Day the Viking Came!

On Monday a Viking lady came in and she said "Specky Norse" which had us all clutching our sides in laughter. "Specky Norse" meant, "do you say Norse".

She showed us some Viking poor girls clothes which consisted of some under wear which you wear like a dress then you have a wool gown on.

A rich boy would wear some baggy Rus pants that would only be found in Russia and worn by traders. He might wear a Rus hat as well which is like a jesters hat and some under wear then a cloak with a knife strapped at the side of him, he has a wool jumper as well.

Then she told us about being a free man or woman.

1. S/He has a key for a box to keep all their money and jewellery.
2. S/He has a knife or sword strapped on to them.
3. S/He might wear money or brooches and jewellery.
4. S/He will have a purse to fill with coins which will be weighed when at the shop.
5. S/He might have a few slaves behind her/him.

To finish she told us a Beowulf story. It was a very good morning and we learnt a lot.

Hawes Christmas Lights Spectacular 2011

We have come again to the time of the year where the Hawes Christmas lights committee erects the lights in Hawes. Committee members have spent many a long night repairing the cross-streets lights and are looking forward to having them switched on. Many new lights have been purchased and we will re-position others that are now working to full brightness.

The Switch-On will be on Saturday 3rd December along with the Christmas Party. All children are invited, both local and visitors. There is no charge for children attending the party but parents are asked to bring some party food to share. Doors open at 1.00pm with the added attraction this year of 'Wensleydale's got Talent'. Colin Bailey is our master of ceremonies and will start the programme at 1.30pm prompt please come along and give your support.

After the Talent Show we will have a few games and the nibbles. At 4.00pm, in the Market Place, there will be Carol singing with the Hawes Prize Silver Band and Father Christmas will arrive in his sleigh at about 4.30pm with gifts for all children.

We again ask everyone to become a Friend of the Hawes Christmas Lights. All personal donations will have a chance to win a Christmas bonus of 10% of the funds donated. Forms will be distributed in early November and additional application forms are available at Hawes Post office and Whites of Wensleydale.

This year the committee has started selling Christmas Cards with Greetings from Hawes on a winter scene and all proceeds will go towards the funds for purchasing new lights. Many traders in the town have them for sale, please purchase them for your Christmas message. If you have any good photos of the lights, or one that would make a Christmas card from Hawes, the committee would be grateful to receive them, please leave them at the Post Office or Whites of Wensleydale.

All work is done by volunteers and we are always asking for assistance in the repair and refurbishment of the lights throughout the year, as well as the erection and removal of the lights. If you can give a few hours please come along, we do have a good laugh while working.

The cherry picker will be attending on Wednesday 2nd November to put up the overhead lights, let's hope for a dry day. We will be starting at 9.00am from the Post Office. If you can assist please contact Kevin White 667236.

The Christmas Lights Committee wishes a peaceful, safe and wonderful Christmas for you and your families.

Wayne Webster, for the committee.
